Weekly Devotional Thoughts | Richard Perry

This past week, I was working on some things that, frankly, didn't require an enormous amount of brain power. That left me with lots of empty space to fill with random thinking.

To help pass the time, I turned on a YouTube channel that had almost 3 full hours of acapella hymns. About an hour in, I realized how many songs I was singing along with, knowing every word. What was most incredible to me was that I even knew the words to the 3rd verse of most of them!

These hymns that we sing over and over, week after week, should never become just words to memorize and recall when we need to sing them, but should rather be our honest and sincere expressions of our devotion and praise to our Father.

For those of you, like me, who have been "in church" your whole life, do you ever stop to think what a blessing that is? To be perfectly honest, sometimes it's easy to forget what our singing represents. I pray that in our singing, we are mindfully approaching our Father in praise and humility.

1 Corinthians 14:15 ... I will sing with the spirit and sing with the understanding
